Games To-Morrow.

Roanoke at Portsmouth. Norfolk at Danville. to the Richmond fans! The Law

Joy to the Richmond fans! The Lawmakers won again yesterday, downing Portsmouth with a 3-0 score, and taking the game by outplaying their opponents at every turn. They just had to play snappy, heavy hitting, fast fielding ball, because their opponents by turn a strong fight themselves. The result was no sinecure, but was made by fast, consistent playing.

As for Revelle—the showing he made on the hill was, as a lady back of the press box said, sublime; for of all the heavy batsmen that faced him, only one got a hit, and that, although it counted for two bags, might be called a scratch. His curves, his high fast ones and his slow balls—all of these chased each other across the plate in glad abandon and bewildering variety. Working perfectly with Sure-Wing Cowan, he never gave the Truckers the tinlest fraction of a chance to connect with the ensiaved horsehide; and when the visitors rubbed their lamps and wondered why they were not sligger those easy looking ones over the fence, the Dutchman only smiled and shook his head.

All the participants performed well, considering the heavy condition of the track, as the result condition of the track, as the result condition of the track, as the result of the recent heavy rains.

Rector's performance in the 100 yards was brilliant, and when the time—a world's record—was announced the spectators went wild with delight. The Yirginia flyer, who has defeated this year such men as Cartwell and Smithson, was in superb form. The time, 9 2-5 seconds, will probably not be accepted by the Amateur Athlette Union, as there was a quartering wind, which alded Rector slightly. The time was taken by four watches, all of which recorded 9 2-5 seconds; hence the time ing cannot be questioned. It was a great disappointment to the crowd when it was announced that, owing to a slight wind in his favor, the time would probably not be allowed by the Amateur Athlette Union officials.

Some idea of Rector's performance can be gotten from the fact that Ashby, a good, consistent performer at 10 1-5.
